Corpus Beach

It really isn't surprising that you didn't buy then, and it is surprising that as many did invest at that time, for we had no good roads, no hotel, no city water, no electric lights, none of the hundreds of beautiful homes and no Causey-ray in sight.

Today we have all of these and Corpus Beach Property is a better investment than ever before:

It will increase in value and desirability each year and we can offer you terms that leave you no excuse, not to buy now. Every man has an ambition to own his own home, and if you will call at our offices and talk the matter over, perhaps you will be surprised to find that it isn't as hard to arrange as you thought.

Visit CORPUS BEACH TODAY and see us TOMORROW.

WARFARE IN HEAVENS WAS FIRST WITNESSED IN ENGLAND 272 YEARS AGO

RECENT RAIDS OF GERMAN ZEPPELINS CAUSED HISTORIANS TO DIG THROUGH MUSTY TOMES TO CONFIRM WONDERFUL OCCURRENCES OF 1647.

London, Feb. 2.—Warfare in the heavens was witnessed by man's own minnows 272 years ago in Northamptonshire, when the blotted battle on high amazed the good people of the land and caused no little consternation to the monarch. The recent raids of the German Zeppelins on the coast towns have caused historians to dig through many tomes to confirm the wonderful occurrences of 1647.

In a broadsheet printed at the time has been found the strange tale of a ghostly warfare seen by the King's own astronomers. In the darkness of the night, when the clash of arms and groans of the dying were heard by the stricken witnesses, it was on a Saturday night in the Christian year of 1647 that the good citizens of Kington in Northamptonshire first saw the ghostly spectacle and heard the roar of muskets and cannon on high. It was between twelve and one in the morning, when there was heard to ring elephants and tolling the noise of soldiers giving out their last groans, of which they were much amazed. Then appeared in the air these incorporate soldiers that made them shudder, with ensigns displayed, drums beating, muskets going off, canons discharged.

Until after three in the morning the terrible fight on high continued, the clashing of arms, noise of elephants, roar of soldiers so amazing and terrifying the poor men that they could not believe they were mortal or give credit to their ears and eyes.

"This week they slept not, for fear of being made a prey to these infernal soldiers, and so they, with much fear and affright stayed to behold the issue of the business. When the moon rose, the poor men, glad they were gone, made all haste to Kington and there scaling up Mt. Woods, a pasture on the pastures, who called it his mountain, Mr. Marshall, the minister, then gave them an account of the whole message and avowed it upon their oaths to be true.

"Remembering their judgment till the next night about the same hour, they with the same men and all the substantial men of that and the neighboring parishes, drew together, where about half an hour after their arrival in Kington, being Christmas night, appeared in the same tumultuous warlike manner the same two thousand soldiers fighting with as much spirit and valour as formerly. The next night they appeared not, nor all that week, but as the evening sounded short, in the same place and at the same hour, they were again seen, with far greater valour fighting in the air above where mentioned for four hours or more, and then vanished, appearing again on Sunday night and performing the same action of hostility and concluding successively the next Saturday and Sunday the same tumults and groans, and no signs and actions were observed.

The rumor, whereof, coming to His Majesty, whereof he immediately dispatched thither Colonel Lewis Kicks Captain Godley, Captain Waller and three other gentlemen of credit to take full view and notice of the said business, who, first hearing the relation of Mr. Marshall and others, stayed there until Saturday night, following wherein they saw and heard the forementioned prodigies, and as an example, distinctly knowing divers of the exhortations to their foes, as that of Sir Edmund Barlow and others that were slain of whom were with their heads testimony to His Majesty.

In their report to the King, the investigation proclaimed the unusual occurrence as a genuine reproduction of the battle that had taken place two months before on the adjacent field at Shrewsbury between the forces of the King and those of the Parliament.

McCall's Magazine for All Caller Subscribers

PAYMENT OF 5 CENTS PER WEEK
FOR 6 WEEKS SECURES
MAGAZINE 1 YEAR.

During the past few weeks the Callers have taken 152 subscriptions to McCall's Magazine. These subscriptions have been given as a premium to new subscribers, and to old subscribers who would renew their subscriptions for period of one year or longer.

Most of these subscribers have already received the first copy of the magazine. Many have received the second number. Those who have received neither copy, are asked to telephone the Circulation Department of the Caller, so that contributions may be filled with the McCall Publishing Company, of New York City, in case the delay is through fault of theirs.

McCall's is a standard magazine and the Caller has been fortunate in making such arrangements with its publishers as enables it to use this publication in connection with the Daily and Weekly Caller.

Each person taking McCall's Magazine for one year, is given one pattern free. This pattern may be selected from any copy of the magazine, and ordered direct from the McCall Publishing Company.

McCall's Magazine is available to any subscriber in the Caller. Arrangements have been made with the McCall Publishing Company, which enables the Caller to send this magazine to its subscribers for 25 cents above the subscription price of the Caller.

Any person desiring to subscribe for this magazine, may telephone the Caller office (Phone 248). The magazine will be ordered at once, and will be charged on the subscription account, payable 5 cents per week for six weeks.

Geographic Society in Pan Picture Tells of Greatness of the City of Vienna.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8.—Describing Vienna and its people, a statement prepared by the National Geographic Society today says:

"Vienna is brilliant. Vienna—according to the wondering reports of the correspondents—is the least inclined to travel with gaiety. To sing into the heavy lethargy and depression of the stern business of war. The Vienna have spent centuries in practicing under all conditions the arts of happiness. They have learned to move at over-cautiousness, at fearfulness, at the serious courting of discomfort in the guise of duty.

"Endless, sentiment, beauty, grace, and music in every form compete to make Vienna the Loftiest City of the earth. There is only one Imperial City, the Vienna, and that city is Vienna."

"How did you learn?
—they're just like mother's!"
